

Robert (Rob) Auslander, CPA, CGMA, MBA
Vice President Internal Audit Bausch & Lomb
Adjunct Professor Yeshiva University Auditing & Accounting Information Systems

Rob joined Bausch Health during 2016 and has been responsible for providing guidance on complex accounting matters, controls, and issuing accounting policies in support of all operations and functions. Rob has extensive knowledge of technical accounting pronouncements, controls, compliance, and regulations gained from 30+ years of experience working for large multinational corporations. Most recently Rob was responsible for leading a team to separate the finance functions for Bausch Health, which enabled both companies to operate as separate standalone entities. While at Bausch Health Rob was responsible for issuance of over 50 accounting policies, as well as the adoption of significant new FASB account standards related to revenue and leasing.

Prior to Joining Bausch Health, Rob worked for Tyco International for 9 years and was responsible for providing guidance to global business and operations on, controls & compliance, complex accounting matters, and business M&A activity. While at Tyco Rob was instrumental in separating the Company into three public companies and building a global Technical Accounting and Compliance teams. Prior to joining Tyco Rob was responsible for Technical Accounting Research for Cendant Corporation and was instrumental in the spin-off and sale of Cendant Corporation into four separate companies. Prior to Joining Cendant, Rob worked for Lucent Technologies and KPMG.

Rob has spoken at various external events on technical accounting matters, controls, and polices, and recently served as delegate to the FEI Committees on Corporate Reporting. Rob has extensive experience providing training both in person and virtual and has presented at conferences with over 500 people in attendance. Rob is a member of the NJSCPA and AICPA. He earned his BS degree from Ithaca College and has an MBA from Rutgers University.